

Essential equipment for your future

Expression of wish form

If you die whilst you are a contributing member of the Scheme, a lump sum death-in-service benefit is payable. Even if you have made a separate will, it will not cover any benefits from the Scheme. It is therefore important that you tell the Trustee to whom you would like the benefit paid by completing this form. Although the Trustee does not have to act on your wishes, it will take them into account. This is so that the benefit can be paid free of inheritance tax.

Once you have returned this form it will take priority over any previous forms that you may have completed and returned to us.
